As the defendant, you have the right to face those who accuse you of a crime. You cannot be forced to testify or make any statement against yourself. You have the right to have witnesses testify on your behalf, including the right to subpoena witnesses.

You have the right to hire the attorney of your choice to represent you. If you are charged with a crime that carries the possibility of a jail sentence, and you are indigent, then you have the right to a court appointed attorney.

You have the right to require the prosecution to prove your guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

If the crime you are charged with carries the possibility of a jail sentence, you have the right to a jury trial.

By executing this document, you hereby acknowledge that the above listed rights have been explained to you, verbally and in writing, and you have agreed to waive those rights and plead guilty. You further acknowledge that you have been given the opportunity to ask for further explanation of your rights. You further acknowledge that no promises or threats have been made by anyone to secure your waiver of rights and guilty plea.
